Chapter 1 by Patience Johnson

Then Goodman slams the door. The crowd starts whispering. "What now?" Sally says. "We go out to town and see what's happening out there." Steve says. Charlie agrees with Steve and they go to town. When they get there, they find something terrible. Fire has started in town. People running crazy, stealing things from stores. "What happened here?" Charlie says. "I don't know but we are about to find out." Steve says. Steve runs to the nearest person and asked what has happened, the woman he finds starts to speak then when she finishes she runs into the nearest store. Steve walks back over to the group and starts to explain.

The women said that there was a plane that crashed downtown towards the soccer field, but there was not one person on the plane and it was not scheduled to fly today, but another weird thing is the same plane crashed in New York two weeks ago, when the plane hit the ground all of the power went out all over the town but there were no power lines near where it fell, and the plane was left in perfect shape not a scratch on it. The two walked around town. Suddenly the ground began to shake. It split open right down the middle of town in a perfect line. A black, almost transparent figure appears from the ground. Every time it took a step it seemed like the earth stopped spinning. The crowd scattered, but Steve and Charlie stayed. They were mesmerized by the figure. So mesmerized that.....
